

Beginners Fourth Round Competition Night

We had another great competition last night even though the entry was down slightly. Thanks to Tony McDonnell for judging for us and he was very impressed with the images put in front of him. Two images were awarded a top score of 20 points, Dermot Ahern's stunning colour image of a flower and Mark Conroy's equally stunning mono portrait.

At the end of the evening, it was the feeling, tone and quality of Mark's image that won him bragging rights to Image of the Month for the second month in a row! Well done to everyone who took part, for making the effort and entering your images.

For the last part of the evening we had the pleasure of seeing Paul Marry's recently successful and stunning IPF Panel. Many thanks to Paul, who stepped in at short notice, for his very informative talk on this panel. He discussed the requirements and standards of the IPF and how he went about putting it all together.

...and finally folks, our chairman Tony McDonnell presents the Celtic Challenge Trophy for best colour image to Gabriel O'Shaughnessy
