

DPS Weekend Away in Donegal

There was much ado last weekend as 18 members of the club ventured to the northwest to spend the weekend in Donegal. What fabulous scenery and what interesting weather! We had the pleasure to stay in Óstan Caisleáin Óir in Annagry. Out thanks go to the members of staff whose friendliness and quality of service ensured that everyone had a great time.

Dave Donlon seeks the perfect vantage near Illanamarve

Tony McDonnell does the hokey pokey on Carrick Finn beach

Fearless Dave Martin will scale any height to get the perfect picture

While Mark English is not afraid to get his feet wet

The general consensus from everyone who was on the trip was that we must come back again next year. There was so much to see. The landscapes were so varied within this region from the forest and lakes of the Poison Glen to the mountains within Glenveagh National Park and the seascapes all along the coast.